PURPOSE

The New Zealand Research Information System (NZRIS) team at MBIE is coordinating a central source of data about extreme weather research and funding. This is intended as a work-in-progress data set primarily for:

- › researchers to find out what research is happening and make connections.
- › communities to understand the research response, where it has been directed, and to use research findings where applicable.

The NZRIS team is undertaking this work on behalf of the research, science and innovation sector. The data collected aligns with standards set by NZRIS, so that once NZRIS is up and running, this information can be incorporated our national system.

Data is provided by researchers and organisations. This means that the data in this spreadsheet belongs to the researchers and organisations who have submitted it. As it contains information provided voluntarily by researchers and organisations willing to share details on their work, it is by no means comprehensive. Some fields may be blank either because the data was not available or the submitter chose not to provide it. Note that MBIE is not responsible for the accuracy of the data, and we will direct enquiries about specific research activities to the organisation or researcher that provided the data.

This specification contains information about three types of entity:

- › awards: decisions to allocate funding.
- › projects: past or current research activities that may or may not have received funding.
- › outputs: metadata about the outputs from research.
